

If you can see this text then you have forgotten to give an argument to make the file of your choice. For instance, if your \LaTeX file is called `file.tex` you can make all document formats using:

> make name=file

You can make individual formats as follows:

> make standard name=file
> make clear name=file
> make large name=file
> make web name=file
> make word name=file

Please note that the large print format does not reflow the mathematics and so anything in mathematics mode may go off the right hand side of the page.
